8. To help us better understand your pro-life position could you please tell us why you consider yourself to be pro-life, if you have pro-life qualifications that would be helpful for us to know and how you plan to use your elected position to support life.

My respect for life began at a very young age in Lutheran Schools and in my church life. As I went on to my undergraduate experience at Wheaton College, a Christian institution, my concern and commitment to life at birth, throughout life regardless of the situation and in the twilight of our time here on earth. I became a physician to uphold the Hippocratic oath and to preserve life. My specialty, treating the youngest and most vulnerable children with cancer has placed me in the O.R. many times resuscitating newborns as small as one pound. These experiences have strengthened my resolve to help save the lives of those who have so much potential and hope for a life ahead. My work places me squarely in the role of speaking up for the young and vulnerable patients I serve, giving a voice to the voiceless and hope to those who cling to life. My commitment to life is clear in my years of service and study to preserve it, that commitment includes speaking up against abortion. As a board member for Indiana Right To Life and in my daily work, I live that commitment to "do no harm."

Your response to #8 will be used by the Right to Life of Northeast Indiana PAC to help determine endorsements, will be available to individuals on request and will be posted on our website, but will not be published in our voter education material because of space limitations.
